AC-CESS has signed a distributor for the market leading hand portable, rapid intervention underwater inspection system, the ACROV. Ing-Buero G. Pinnow IGP are based in Hamburg, which is at the hub of Germany's marine technology market. Markus Weis of IGP said that the AC-ROV looks and operates like a larger ROV which gets the attention of experienced pilots and users.

He finds it versatile and with the range of custom attachments, can be adapted for a range of tasks. The AC-ROV is small, depth rated to 100m and with 5 degrees of freedom it can go where other technologies or divers can't. It is the perfect tool for the visual appraisal of an issue and supporting any diving or underwater operation which follow.
