

EdgeTech Welcomes John DeMille

EdgeTech, USA, recently announced the arrival of John DeMille as Product Line sales engineer. John's role with EdgeTech will remain focused on the SAR customers and the EdgeTech 4125 Systems. John has over 40 years in the marine industry. Most recently John worked with Marine Sonic Technology where he was heavily involved with the side scan sonar product line.

John is well known by countless police, fire, public safety dive teams and other dedicated Search and Recovery (SAR) teams at the local and federal level throughout the country. He has provided training, service and sales support on side scan sonar systems and other important equipment for the industry. He spent 20 years as a US Navy Sea Bee Deep Sea diver serving with the US Navy underwater construction teams and then went on to work as a project superintendent installing marine transatlantic communication cables.

EdgeTech's 4125 Side Scan Sonar System was designed specifically for the SAR market as a rugged, portable, easy-to-use system that provides ultra-high resolution underwater imagery.