

Atlas Broadens its Horizon

Atlas Services Group has completed acquisition of a 75% interest in South West Surveys (UK), with the aim of adding further scope and options for the combined existing client base and consultants.

Since 1978 South West Surveys has specialised in supplying highly experienced personnel to the offshore energy and telecommunication industries worldwide, primarily as offshore client representatives and marine project managers. SWS have undergone a period of managed growth since 2007 and are now a major supplier of offshore survey and construction expertise.

With an evolving marketplace, both Atlas and South West Surveys share the view, and have chosen a direction that provides a mutually complimentary scope and broadens the long term plans for both companies. SWS have a track record in the offshore construction and cable consultancy industries. Together with Atlas' geophysical & environmental consultancy, the combination will be able to offer their clients a matching solution and their consultants opportunities for career development.

Business will continue as usual as South West Surveys, enhanced by access to Atlas' resources.
