

Andrew Blears Expands Subsea Services in APAC

Andrew Blears, director for leading Energy, Marine and Renewables recruitment specialist Atlas Professionals, will be based in the company's Singapore office to support the team and enhance Atlas' collaboration with local businesses in the Asia-Pacific. He is looking forward to further enhancing Atlas' offering in the APAC and supporting both clients and professionals alike across the full range of their markets, while continuing to invest in the Survey, ROV and Inspection industries.

Atlas provides survey and ROV personnel and has a history in the subsea industry, and has the local knowledge to assist clients and professionals wherever they may be. This move is also in line with the company's goal to support the increasing demand for subsea services and support in the region.

The specialist Survey and ROV, Diving & Inspection teams, based in the UK, will remain unchanged. The teams have over 35 years of experience in sourcing temporary and permanent positions for some of the biggest names in the industry. Atlas' survey and ROV teams also have extensive field experience in this market, allowing in-house support. Along with their proven track records, they're continually developing the careers and skills of offshore survey and ROV personnel.
