

EIVA Drops Yet Another Anchor in China

China has been the destination of quite a number of orders shipped from Danish EIVA the last couple of years. Due to expectations of further growth in demand from this market for EIVA solutions, the company has added a new member to the group of authorised resellers in China.

Chinese Smartsea Technology has become authorised reseller of EIVA software and hardware solutions for the offshore industry. Headquartered in Wuxi, which is situated approximately 130 kilometres northwest of Shanghai, Smartsea Technology will contribute to the penetration of the Chinese market, which has already shown great interest in especially the EIVA NaviSuite software and ScanFish range of remotely operated towed vehicles.

Among other things, Smartsea Technology specialises in oceanographic, hydrographic and offshore engineering inspection equipment sales and technical service. Its customers include the Chinese Academy of Science, the State Oceanic Administration and the China National Offshore Oil Corporation.
