

Nautronix Appoints New CEO in Australia

Nautronix Ltd, the Australian subsidiary of Nautronix (Holdings) plc headquartered in Aberdeen Scotland, announces the appointment of Mike Gallagher as their new CEO.

Mike Gallagher spent 22 years with the Royal Australian Navy, specialising as a submariner, and completed a prominent career retiring in the rank of Commander. Since leaving the Navy he has enjoyed a number of successful business appointments including the Director of Business Development with Sonartech Atlas and with Raytheon Australia as the General Manager of the Naval Systems business and more recently as the General Manager, Strategy and Business Development.

Mr Gallagher is a graduate of the University of New South Wales and has undertaken graduate training, as part of his naval career, at defence accredited organisations and the Australian Graduate School of Management. Mike is a member and supporter of a number of Government advisory committees and the Royal Australian Navy Reserve and is a founding member and former Secretary of the Submarine Institute of Australia.

<https://www.hydro-international.com/content/news/nautronix-appoints-new-ceo-in-australia>
