

NORBIT Appoints Mairi Law as Director for Sales and Marketing

NORBIT have appointed Mairi Law as director of Sales and Marketing to support their growing UK and Irish client base. According to NORBIT's Peter Eriksen, she has extensive experience in the sales of multibeam systems, and understands what is important to clients as they wish the latest generation of sonar technology from a trusted partner.

Mairi Law commented that customer support has always been important to her and NORBIT's range of multibeam systems combined with integrated sensors, allows Mairi's role to evolve client's operational capability when either upgrading their existing older technology or procuring new systems. Using small efficient form factors, the systems are designed to be installed on USV, ROV, AUV and vessel platforms.
