

Norcontrol IT Invests In Radar and Tracking Technology Research

Norcontrol IT has become the majority shareholder of Norwegian radar technology company, Applied Radar Physics (ARP). ARP has been involved in radar technology for over 15 years, and is located in the Norwegian research centre at Kjeller, where several high profile Norwegian research organisations are located. ARP's standing in international radar research was further acknowledged at the "Radar 2003" conference in Australia, where the company presented a paper on radar signal processing to the world's foremost radar researchers.
