

Radar and Tracking Research

Norcontrol IT has become the majority shareholder in Norwegian radar technology company Applied Radar Physics (ARP), which has been involved in radar technology for over 15 years and is located in the Norwegian research centre at Kjeller along with several high-profile Norwegian research organisations. ARP's standing in international radar research was further acknowledged at the "Radar 2003" conference in Australia, where the company presented a paper on radar signal processing to the world's foremost radar researchers.

<https://www.hydro-international.com/content/news/radar-and-tracking-research>
