

Seagull Enhanced Training

IMO has adopted regulations, proposed by the Seafarers Training Certification and Watchkeeping (STCW), which require all vessels to provide navigation and equipment training for their crews. Seagull has developed on board training software that meets and exceeds requirements established by the IMO. Some of these regulations have been put in place to manage the increased complexity of today's sophisticated electronic charting and navigation equipment. For shipping companies eager to avoid reduce time, travel and the cost of hosting expensive crew-training courses on land, Seagull has developed comprehensive on-board training solutions. Users pay a fixed annual subscription rate to access various training modules and can run the modules on existing on board PCs.

<https://www.hydro-international.com/content/news/seagull-enhanced-training>
