

Three-year Survey Contract for Fugro

Fugro has been awarded a large, three-year survey contract by Total E&P Angola, with an estimated value of USD26 million, to support its development programmes offshore Angola. The contract includes the provision of offshore positioning services and accurate navigation systems for Total E&P Angola's drilling units, vessels and structures, together with onshore and offshore survey services.

This contract is a continuation of services supplied to Total E&P Angola under a similar contract since 2008.

The contract is one of the building blocks for the continued development and further investment into Fugro's activities in Angola.
