During the 14th edition of the VLIZ Young Marine Scientists' Day, which is to be held on 7 March 2014 in Bruges, Belgium, the diversity, quality and relevance of marine and coastal sciences in Flanders is to be highlighted. The organisers challenge all marine and coastal scientists to prepare a short abstract presenting their research in a clear, concise and attractive way.

The abstract should be of maximal 500 words and submitted by 16 December 2013. Twenty abstracts will be selected for a plenary session of short pitch presentations. The other participants will be able to present their work in the poster session.
